

CALLED BACK TO HIS OLD JOB ONLY TO MEET DEATH

"Jerry" Crushed by Broadway
Central Hotel Elevator He Ran Twenty Years.

"Jerry," the elevator man at the Broadway Central Hotel, who has been a familiar figure about the hotel for the past two decades, was ground to death by his car at 3 A. M. to-day two hours after he returned to the job he had been forced to leave because of his wife's death.

Jerry's last name was Moriarty, and a better natured, bigger hearted Irishman never lived. Patrons of the hotel got to know Jerry, and they trusted him and depended upon him. After the death of his wife he took his only child, a girl, to Ireland and left her with relatives. Then he came back to find another man running the elevator. Jerry was told there wasn't any place for him, and he got a job up at the Hotel Lorraine.

"Where's Jerry?" was a question asked Daniel C. Webb, proprietor of the hotel, a dozen times a day. "Why don't you get Jerry back?"

Mr. Webb sent for Jerry yesterday and told him to go back on the elevator at 1 o'clock this morning. Jerry was happy. He had never felt at home away from the house where he had worked so long.

He took his old place an hour after midnight, and he was happier than he had been for many a day. A drummer came in at 3 o'clock and rang for the elevator. There was no response. The drummer turned to Patrick Whalen, the night clerk, and remarked:

"Jerry must have acquired bad habits while away. He never went to sleep on the job before."

The night clerk investigated and found the car stalled between the fourth and fifth floors. Between the car and the wall was Jerry's crushed body.

NEW YORK M. D. ARRESTED.

Taken in Newark Hotel While Attempting an Operation.

A young and pretty woman registered at Koch's Hotel, Newark, as "Mrs. P. B. James, Chatham, Ontario," last night. A man visited her, sending up a card, "Dr. Andrew N. Thompson, No. 22 West Twenty-third street, New York."

Soon afterward the man was arrested on the charge of trying to perform an operation forbidden by law.

The woman, who is a New Yorker and who had assumed a false name, was sent to the City Hospital.

Dr. Thompson was locked up at Police Headquarters, Newark. Police Surgeon Clark said he confided to him that he is really Dr. D. L. Flannery, who, until last June, was a resident physician in a most reputable hospital here.

The Entire Main Floor of Our New Building Is Devoted to New York's Most Convenient STORE for MEN

Most men like to go to a store that they have all to themselves. That's why we brought the Men's stocks across the street from the Women's Store, and gave them the ENTIRE MAIN FLOOR of our New Building.

Easy to get to. Roomy to get around in.

Everything that a man wears, right here together on the same floor.

Fullest stocks of Imported and American Shirts and Neckwear—the finest made on both sides of the Atlantic, and the very latest things from Paris and London.

It is as fine a shop as the most particular of them can demand. Comfortable to shop in—nothing but men's and boys' goods on the entire floor. Access from four sides—Broadway, Astor Place, Fourth Avenue and Ninth Street—and under the Subway!

Men who pass here twice a day, on the Subway, "L," or Broadway or Fourth Avenue cars are sometimes surprised to find such a superb store within easy reach, with such a magnificent spread of goods of special interest to them. And the goods are here—high Wanamaker standards of quality, applied to the newest, best, distinctive styles in Clothing—Shoes—Hats—Shirts and Neckwear—Underwear and Hosiery. Here are some Saturday news items, gathered from this spacious floor; led by

MEN'S RAINCOATS—the Coats of General Utility

The Wanamaker Store

Store Closes Daily at 6 P. M.

These Crisp October Days Bring Thousands to Wanamaker's

EVERYBODY seems ready and anxious for the new things, and WANAMAKER'S is today a World's Exposition of New Fashions, as well as of the necessities for personal comfort and the preparing of the home for the new season.

The whole city seems to be talking about the very remarkable exhibitions that are being made this week. We are told that we have never done anything like it before. Certainly we have done our BEST and that ought to be better than anything in the past. In a season when the policy of curtailment of stocks is almost universal, we felt that the public would appreciate one store where assortments would be BETTER than ever before, and where every new and desirable thing would be assembled. You see the result of this policy in

- A Wonderful Exhibition of Paris Costumes—
- A Superb Array of Paris and Wanamaker Millinery—
- Exquisite Neck-Fixings for Women, filling the Rotunda—
- Beautiful Paris Blouses and Lingerie—
- Dainty Paris Garments for Little Folks—
- A Vast Assemblage of Dress Fabrics—
- A Marvelous Gathering of French Handkerchiefs—

You might spend an hour in delighted admiration of the needlework on the cob-webby hand-embroidered handkerchiefs. Every mother will feel the thrill of desire to put them on her own little one, when she sees the wonderful garments for baby. You will probably be amazed to look over the hundreds of different styles in hosiery, and the very practical stocks of underwear offer more comfort than you will realize, because of the betterments secured for Wanamaker garments.

Many a practical housekeeper will be most interested in the beautiful and substantial Linens, and the Blankets and other bedding.

We can't take your time to tell more than a hint of the story, but there has never been a time when people would miss so much by not coming to WANAMAKER'S as right now.

The splendid Program in the AUDITORIUM is continued. In the morning, at 10.30, the Beaman Ladies' Orchestra and the Manhattan Ladies' Quartette. In the afternoon, at 2, Miss Virginia Wilson, Soprano; Miss Lillia Snelling, Contralto; Mr. Paul Dufault Tenor; Dr. Carl Duff, Bass, and The Svodofsky String Quartette.

Admission free, without tickets.

Shoes for the Children
